School and teacher lead the way

ST LOUIS de Montford’s Primary School continues to show it is one of Australia’s greenest schools, picking up the Education Award in the Premier’s Sustainability Awards.

And one of the teachers most responsible for the school’s success, Julie Wynn, was also recently named Victorian Primary School Teacher of the Year.

Students have hands-on learning through their “Garden to Kitchen” program in their sustainability precinct, at the adjacent wetlands and at Port Phillip Bay. Ms Wynn said they had been working really hard “to connect sustainability to the curriculum”.

“We want to be an exemplary school when it comes to sustainability and education,” she said.
